March in the Garden

Most visitors know that UBC Botanical Garden has an excellent collection of rhododendrons. But few know that there are more than a few species that regularly flower in early spring. One year in March (I think it was 2008) I counted thirty-eight species in flower. Read more on our blog.

Congratulations to Dr. Tara Moreau!

The City of Vancouver has awarded our own Dr. Tara Moreau the prestigious Award of Excellence for Greenest City Leadership. She was presented with her award by Vancouver Mayor Gregor Robertson at a ceremony on February 28. Learn more.

Magnolia Incarnata:*Dance and Poetry in the Asian Garden

Don't miss Artist in Residence Dr. Celeste Snowber's latest inspirational performance among the magnolias in the Asian Garden. Saturday, April 8, 2017. 2:00-3:00 pm. Learn more.

Shop & Garden Centre March Update

We can't wait for spring! Come visit us and see what's new. Little ones will delight in our vast array of animal finger puppets, from bears to bobcats and bunnies. The berries of Myrtus communis are used to flavour mortadella - who knew? This may not be your reason for buying one of our lovely myrtle topiaries (budding Edward Scissorhands love these!) but they bring a touch of evergreen to your sunny window. Learn more.
