Apple Festival

Apple Festival Is Coming!

Join us at the Garden on Saturday, October 19th and Sunday, October 20th at 11am-4pm for Apple Festival, one of our biggest events in the year.

Taste and celebrate BC-grown apples, learn more about apple diversity, and enjoy a day outside in the Garden, where many activities and treats await attendees of all ages! Apple Festival is a great opportunity to discover more about one of BC's favourite fruits.

Apple Festival Volunteers Needed

We need your help to make Apple Festival a success! We welcome volunteers from students to seniors with different skills and abilities to assist on both days as well as Friday for set-up. Please sign up for shifts at the link below. Make sure to share this with friends or family who might be interested in volunteering. Thank you for your interest in getting involved!

October in the Garden

In the Botanical Garden, we look forward to the remarkable autumn colours of maples, sweet gums and tupelos to light up the shortening days. But not all deciduous trees produce vibrant autumn colour. For example, many European trees are described as having, at best, biscuit-coloured leaves in the autumn. I suppose it's unreasonable to expect all deciduous trees to have brightly coloured leaves.
